

What if you could do more with less?

If 911 and public safety could save dollars on new investments, other critical need areas could be funded.

That's why Kimball Technology offers procurement and implementation support services. We've helped public safety agencies realize major cost savings for big expenditures, such as telephony equipment, automated systems, network infrastructure and voice and data systems. Using a value-based, objective assessment of your options, we help you secure the ideal solution for the right price.
